Our City Comment & discussion

by THOMAS D. WATSON

The Value of the Editorial Viewpoint of a Newspaper.

NEWSPAPERS of today, whether published in a large or small city are judged by their editorials.

These editorials are read and passed upon each day by the subscribers. As they are read they are either endorsed or rejected.

If the writer of the editorials accepts his responsibility as he should, and studies carefully over the subject being covered before submitting it to the readers, they will most likely accord the paper their support.

The editorial staff of a newspaper is continually in touch with the life of a community and in consequence is able to judge the public thought in an unbiased way.

A newspaper should stand guard over the people's interests and the welfare of a community. This can be done most efficiently through its editorial column.

There are newspapers that have no editorial column. They do not reflect the will of their readers. They are purely commercial organizations. They operate money-making machines. They assume no responsibility for the community's welfare. They take less responsibility than the butcher or baker.

THE writer of an editorial tries to tell the readers what he has conscientiously tried to do his duty towards the citizens and the community, these mistakes will be overlooked—they will be accepted as honest endeavors.

The more popular an editorial column gets the greater the responsibility.

There are quite a number of individuals who know that the column is widely read endeavor to secure its column for some private enterprise solely from an advertisement viewpoint. In other words they use their influence to endeavor to commercialize the editorial.

The value of an editorial column depends entirely on the confidence the readers have in the column. A commercial enterprise should be treated only on its actual value to the community.

A city's interests are liable to be neglected if its newspaper has no editorial column. But this column must be written without fear or favor.

HENRY FORD IS 60 YEARS OLD TODAY

Twenty Years Ago He Was as Poor As He Is Rich Today

DETROIT, Mich., July 30.—(United Press.)—Henry Ford, maker of automobiles and the world's richest man, is 60 years old today.

Twenty years ago, on this 40th birthday, he was a poor man. He had just quit a job with the Detroit Edison company, where he had worked for seven years, to organize the Ford Motor company.

While he was working as a master mechanic in the Edison electric power plant, carrying his dinner pail to work and drawing a salary of $125 a month, Ford was spending his nights and holidays working on his "horseless carriage."

Thus he established the foundation of his success; success in becoming the world's richest man with a personal fortune of $750,000,000, and head of the world's largest automobile industry, capitalized at $100,000,000.

Ford always forsook the "pleasures of life" to work over his "carriage" which is now the Ford automobile. And in his work, Ford acknowledges that had it not been for the ideal and spiritual devotion and faith of his wife, he could not have succeeded.

Although today marks Ford's passing of the "three score years" mark, it was observed only as other days in his life—sans ceremony.

PRESIDENT TO CONVALESCENCE IN CALIFORNIA; PROGRAM OF RECEPTION CANCELLED

Poisoned by Copper Tainted Crab Meat in Alaska Waters, Chief Executive Is Very Sick Man, It Is Admitted

PHYSICIANS DECIDE HE SHALL REST HERE

President Harding Regrets Keenly the Necessity of Imposing Inconveniences on All Civic Committees in the Southwest Part of State

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—(By the Associated Press) President Harding will be rushed back to Washington by special train as soon as he recovers from his present illness sufficiently to travel, probably within two weeks.

Further developments in the condition of President Harding, ill at a hotel here as a result of an attack of ptomaine poisoning, were being awaited today by his physician. The two California physicians called into consultation last night had not been recalled up to 9 o'clock.

Neither Brigadier General Sawyer, the president's personal physician, nor Lieutenant Commander Boone, assistant to Dr. Sawyer, would make any statement in advance of a bulletin promised for 10 a. m.

The two California physicians, who were called into consultation by Brigadier General Sawyer last night, were again in conference with Dr. Sawyer at about 9:20 o'clock this morning. The two local doctors, Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford University, and Chas. M. Cooper, a heart specialist, had spent the night in the hotel where the president is ill.

President Harding today is a sick man. How serious is his illness his physicians have not said beyond the statement issued late last night saying that "new symptoms" had arisen during the day "indicating complications in the case of the president." But it was regarded as sufficiently serious last night to cause a cancellation of the chief executive's entire California program and to bring about a consultation into which two leading California physicians were called.

Four physicians, participating in the consultation, concluded their meeting early today without issuing any statement although Brigadier General Charles E. Sawyer, personal physician to the president, had previously announced that a bulletin would be made public. None of the four physicians would make a personal statement.

The consultants were Brigadier General Sawyer, Dr. Hubert Work, secretary of the Interior Department, and a former president of the American Medical Association; Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford University, and the present head of the American Medical Association, and Dr. Chas. M. Cooper of Stanford University, a heart specialist.

The calling in of Doctor Cooper, together with other developments, indicated that the effect of possible complications on the president's heart action was being watched carefully.

The decision to call off the California program and to hold in abeyance arrangements for the return to the Atlantic coast by way of the Panama Canal was reported shortly before 11 o'clock at a conference in which Mrs. Harding, Secretary Work, General Sawyer and Secretary Christian participated.

Secretary Christian soon after made the announcement of the change in plans, saying that the president had approved it because he "realizes the great inconvenience imposed on public authorities, volunteer committees by reason of the uncertainty whether the program, in which he was to have participated, can be carried out."

An informal statement made in connection with the formal announcement of the cancellation conveyed the information that Mr. Harding would remain in San Francisco until he completely recovered. This was regarded by some acquainted with the executive's condition as likely to require ten days or two weeks.

The president's sick room is on the eighth floor of a downtown hotel to which he went upon his arrival here early yesterday after abandonment of the trip to the Yosemite. Every effort has been made to give him as much quiet as possible and early this morning orders were given to let no one except members of the presidential party on the eighth floor. Dr. Sawyer was in attendance upon the president or close at hand all last night, assisted by Lieutenant Commander Joel T. Boone, a naval surgeon who since Mrs. Harding's illness last fall has been assistant white house physician.

The real cause of the executive's illness as explained yesterday by Dr. Sawyer, lies in some crabs he ate aboard the naval transport Henderson just before reaching Vancouver. The sea crabs, in the opinion of Dr. Sawyer, were "copied" or like seafood taken from several small areas of Alaskan waters, had become impregnated with copper from the deposits of that mineral along the coast lines. Eating these crabs gave the president a touch of ptomaine poisoning, from which he seemed to be recovering until his visit to Seattle last Friday. The exertion caused by the strenuous program he followed there aggravated the poisoning and the disorder became more than before.

BULLETINS ON PRESIDENT ARE INTERPRETED

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—(United Press) Commenting on the formal bulletin on President Harding's condition, physicians connected with the case interpreted it as follows: Temperature, pulse and respiration are above normal. Localizing of the trouble in the gall bladder region is a usual development of the affliction. Absence of signs of peritonitis show the general condition of the abdominal region good. The fact that the lungs are clear indicates there is no tendency towards heavy cold or pneumonia. The trouble in the cardiovascular system means that the general circulatory system is suffering from strain.

HARDING RECEPTION ANNULLED

Local Arrangements Cancelled by the Chamber of Commerce

FORMALLY NOTIFIED

Committee at L. A. Abandons Its Work in Connection With Visit

A telephone message which Secretary Sanders of the Chamber of Commerce received this morning from Mrs. Ida Koverman, secretary of the Harding celebration committee, in Hotel Ambassador, confirmed the announcement contained in the morning papers of Los Angeles that all arrangements for the entertainment of President Harding in Southern California had been called off, owing to the illness of the chief executive.

W. L. Twining of the decoration committee at once got busy and cancelled orders for any further work in the decoration of Glendale streets, but the decorations placed Sunday morning will of course have to be paid for out of the fund raised for the purpose.

Secretary Sanders leaves tonight for Palo Alto to attend summer school for secretaries.

LAST BULLETIN FROM PRESIDENT HARDING'S BEDSIDE

[By Associated Press] SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—The physicians attending President Harding announced at 2:30 o'clock today that they would hold their next consultation at the president's bedside at 4 o'clock, instead of 6 o'clock as previously announced. The only reason for the earlier consultation, they announced, was to give the public the latest possible intelligence of the president's condition.

The physician also announced the next bulletin on the president's condition will be made public at 5 o'clock.

BASEBALL DRAWS RECORD CROWD

FORBES FIELD, PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 30.—The largest crowd that ever witnessed a baseball game here assembled for today's Pittsburgh-New York National League doubleheader. The crowd was estimated at 35,000. The weather was cloudy and threatening rain. Adams and Scott were announced as the pitchers for the first game. With the crowd banked all around the field, ground rules were necessary, a hit into the crowd going for three bases.

PERSHING TO BE SIX HOURS IN L. A.

LOS ANGELES, July 30.—(United Press)—General Pershing will spend six hours in Los Angeles this evening on his way to San Diego.

On arriving at 7:50 p. m. he will be met by representatives of war veterans organizations and taken to a banquet hall where 2,000 prominent citizens will await him. The general is making a country-wide tour of the citizens' military training camps.

SALARY SCHEDULE FOR EDUCATORS

PASADENA, Cal., July 30.—Putting into operation a plan unlike any other in the state, the Pasadena board of education today adopted a salary schedule for every member of the Pasadena school system. Salary raises are automatic. School clerks, secretaries, caretakers and all others are placed on the list. All are rated and paid accordingly.

BULLETINS ON MR. HARDING'S ILLNESS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—(By the Associated Press) The president at 9 o'clock this morning, the statement said, had a temperature of 101; pulse, 118, and respiration 33.

The statement signed by all of the physicians participating in the consultations follows:

"The president had a fairly comfortable night, with several hours' sleep. His temperature at 9 a. m. was 101, pulse 118, respiration 33. The abdominal symptoms following the digestive which he experienced on the boat (U. S. S. Henderson) are now localized in the gall bladder region. There are no peritoneal symptoms; the lungs are clear.

"The white blood cells, 10,800, with 82 per cent polymorphonuclears; his kidneys are functioning satisfactorily and there are no disturbances of the nervous system except those associated with fatigue.

"His condition is acute and he has temporarily overstrained his cardio vascular system by carrying on his speaking engagements while ill. It will be necessary for him to have complete rest during the period of his acute symptoms."

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—(By the Associated Press) When the physicians were in conference word leaked out from the president's room that the doctors were more optimistic and were virtually agreed that Mr. Harding's illness was "of a temporary nature," most likely to pass away under treatment and rest. No official statement, however, was forthcoming at 10:45 o'clock.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—(By the Associated Press) President Harding spent a fairly comfortable night, according to a bulletin issued at 11 a. m. today by Brigadier General Chas. E. Sawyer, his personal physician.

"His condition is acute and he has temporarily overstrained his cardio vascular system by carrying on his speaking engagements while ill," the bulletin added.

General Sawyer's statement, issued after conference in which two San Francisco physicians participated, said it would be necessary for the president to have complete rest during the period of his acute symptoms.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—(By the Associated Press) President Harding took some nourishment at noon today and was described by one of his physicians this afternoon as somewhat more cheerful. His physicians, Brigadier General Sawyer and Lieutenant Commander Boone, were remaining close to his bedside.

L. A. PAVING CO. BEN ROBISON, JR., SEEKS PAYMENT FOR WORK IS AVALON SCOUT CHIEFTAIN

Property Owners South of Colorado Get Notices of Action

Ben Robison, Jr., formerly of this city and still scout leader of Glendale troop No. 2, has been given charge of Boy Scout work at Avalon, on the island of Catalina, where Troop No. 1 has been organized under the Pasadena district council.

He spends every Friday, Saturday and Sunday there and the balance of the week at his La Crescenta home, where he and his father have built an attractive 7-room house of stone gathered on the land. It is now ready for the interior finish and decoration.

The new Avalon troop has a membership of twenty and has some very good friends on the island, notably the author, Zane Grey, who recently entertained the Scouts with a preview of his latest motion picture play, "The Last Man." He has also taken them for trips in his cruiser, "The Gladiator."

The abandonment of the president's program in Southern California will be a great disappointment to members of the troop who had procured new uniforms that they might make a fine appearance in the welcome the island planned to extend to the president. Under the original plan, he was to spend two days at Catalina.

SHORT CHANGE IS PRACTICED IN CITY

A. Peterson of 444 West Los Feliz road, reported to the police department Saturday night that short change artists had "operated" on him to the tune of $5, according to police records. Both school opens, says Mr. Peterson, are about 20 years of age. Sergeant Simmons has been detailed to this case.

THIEVES VISIT ACCESSORY STORE

The accessory store located at 1414 South San Fernando road, belonging to F. M. Iry, was broken into by thieves some time Saturday night and a number of articles of value were taken, according to police records. The theft was reported to the police department at about 9:45 o'clock Sunday morning.

ARRESTED FOR STREET PARKING

D. M. Allen, 116 Kenilworth, and R. Riddle, 2754 Colorado, Eagle Rock, were arrested, according to the Glendale police department, for parking in the middle of the street in Glendale. They will appear for hearing today.

BUENOS AIRES, July 30.—Horatio Lavalle, an amateur boxer and sportsman, will sail Thursday for New York to aid Luis Angel Firpo in a fight for his match with Jack Dempsey.

POSTOFFICE BIDS TO BE OPENED ON MONDAY, AUG. 6

Postoffice Inspector Harry B. Hall of San Francisco, who was due in Glendale August 5, to open bids for new leased quarters for the Glendale main postoffice, has sent a wire to Postmaster Jackson that he will be here August 6, unless something intervenes to prevent.

"Glendale! Glendale!" Is Song of the Rails

A hint in regard to effective methods of advertising Glendale is contained in the report brought to the city by a teacher graduated from Los Angeles county normal, who has been teaching in Newark, New Jersey for the past eight years, and has now returned to her first love, California. In talking to Superintendent R. D. White, to whom she applied for a position in the city schools, she said the train on which she crossed the continent was filled with people California bound and from Chicago on, all that was heard was "Glendale." Everybody was talking about it. The interest she traced to a Glendale real estate operator, who told all with whom he came in contact about the city.

YOUNG FOLKS GUESTS AT HOLLYWOOD

Children's Concert Is Well Attended on Saturday Afternoon

TRUCK TAKES MANY

Formally Welcomed by Movie Stars to the Big Bowl

Director Ernest Tucker of Community Service is well pleased with Glendale's representation at the children's concert in Hollywood Bowl Saturday afternoon. About 75 were conveyed in the 8 or 10 autos donated for the purpose and the truck provided by Dr. Cagle and A. Carroll. There must have been 10,000 in the bowl, and the concert was wonderful though the children were so excited by the occasion it probably failed to all sink in.

The children were formally welcomed by the movie star, Mae Murray, whose subscription made possible the giving of the concert, and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., was also on the stage.

Conductor Oberhofer explained each number before it was executed by the orchestra, and played up on the piano the motifs that ran through each which the children were to look for.

Announcement was made that another children's concert would be given in the bowl two weeks from Saturday, and a special invitation was extended to Glendale children by Mrs. J. J. Carter, head of the Hollywood Bowl organization.

BERLIN RADICALS CHECKED BY RAIN

[By Associated Press] BERLIN, July 30.—Inclement weather and extraordinary police precautions combined to quench the threatened trouble of "anti-fascist" day.

Sunday was surprisingly quiet throughout the country where thousands of communists had been expected to demonstrate against fascism and against the Cuna government. Disorders occurred at the little city of Neuruppin, not far from here, two communists being killed and nine wounded in a clash with police.

The Lydia class of the Glendale Presbyterian church is holding a picnic supper tonight at 6:30 in Verdugo Woodlands park. The husbands are being entertained and all members have been instructed to bring sandwiches and one other article of food.

Pasadena to Fete Naval Committee

PASADENA, Cal., July 30.—Arrangements have been completed here to entertain the members of the congressional naval committee upon their arrival in the city August 11. There will be sixty members in the party and they will be shown the city and entertained at luncheon by the chamber of commerce.

HAL FRY IS DROWNED AT OSAKIS, MINN.

Meets Death With Brother Ray, It Is Reported to the Elks

WELL KNOWN IN CITY

Left Glendale Wednesday for Trip to Old Home

Glendale relatives and the local Elks lodge have received telegrams notifying them of the death by drowning of Hal Fry of Glendale and his brother, Ray Fry, at Osakis, Minn.

According to word received today the brothers were on a launch in a lake near Osakis, with their elder brother, Vern, when the tragedy occurred. The elder brother was saved.

Hal Fry was 28 years of age and was formerly the proprietor of the cigar stand at the Pacific Electric depot at Brand and Broadway, later being in the taxi business with Mr. Martin. He left Glendale by automobile last Wednesday, accompanied by a friend, for Salt Lake City. There he sold his automobile and continued by train for Osakis, where he had planned to visit and return to California with his brother Ray, who had been in poor health. The latter had been in the army for fourteen years.

Full particulars of the death of the two brothers have not been received. Funeral services will be held at Osakis and buried will be in the family plot there, where Melvin Sweet, their half-brother, is also buried. Melvin Sweet enlisted in the services of the United States army when seventeen years of age and was an expert machine gunner and was killed during the World War. His diary was published in many of the big newspapers throughout the country. Hay Fry was a member of the Glendale lodge of Elks. He leaves a widow, Mrs. H. A. Hana, of 604 East Colorado street, Glendale; Mrs. Haslan of Santa Maria; and Mrs. Knotts of Huntington Beach; a half sister, Mrs. Halbertson of Taft, Calif., and three brothers, Vern Fry, Claude Fry of Little Falls, Minn., and Cole Fry of Minneapolis.

GLENDALE MAN 'SLIPPERY M'GEE' WINS LOT IN RAINBOW OPENS TUESDAY AT THE T. D. & L.

Andy Anderson Is Lucky One Who Registered at Office

Andy Anderson, 358 West Harvard, who has been a resident of Glendale since before "Heck" was born, is the proud and smiling winner of the free lot in Rainbow Valley which was given by the Glendale concern that is handling that property. Like several thousand others Andy registered his name at the local office of this firm at the corner of Brand and Colorado, and when the names were drawn out of the hat Andy proved to be the blushing winner. Andy doesn't know just what to do with the lot. He may build his summer home there; possibly he will convert it into a mountain hideout or may use it for the location of his winter retreat. However he is not thinking of moving his permanent address from Glendale.

'TOMORROW,' TOPIC OF REV. DR. FUNK

"Tomorrow" was the subject for the morning sermon by Dr. Funk at the First Lutheran church, Sunday morning. The text was taken from the Second Book of Moses and at the tenth verse. "And he said, tomorrow." It has well been said that procrastination is the thief of time. One of the biggest lies the devil ever put over is the one in which he tries to make people believe that a Christian must have a long, sorrowful face and a high pitch of feeling, a state of semi-religious intoxication. No, being scared is not a sure sign of being saved. A man may have lots of feeling and yet be lost. Most of these so-called sudden conversions are nothing but sudden frights. A cool, deliberate decision for Christ and the church is better than any amount of feeling. Decide, by the grace of God, say, "I will," and do it; and, do it now. Isn't it a strange thing that men put off the most important things to some more convenient time? Think of it! When the frogs covered the land of Egypt, couldn't put down a foot without stepping on frogs; frogs in the house, in the bedroom and in the bed; frogs in the bread troughs, in the ovens and in the bread; Pharaoh sent for Moses and begged him to treat the Lord to take away the frogs. And as Moses inquired when they should be removed, Pharaoh said, "Tomorrow." But how can a man be converted? By getting over on God's side. There is no use in asking the Lord to come over on yours. Find out where God is, then get there and stay there.

If you did, until all your friends as they would be done by, you wouldn't even have the core of the apple left.

"Slippery McGee" opens Tuesday, for one day only," said H. A. Albright, manager of the T. D. and L. this morning.

"Today, Monday, Jack Holt will be seen in 'A Gentleman of Leisure' and a big preview of Avery Hopwood's celebrated stage success, 'The Gold Diggers.' The members of the all-star cast are

Colleen Moore in 'Slippery McGee'

Hope Hampton, Wyndham Standing, Louise Fazenda. There will be a personal appearance of one or more of the cast from the T. D. and L. stage. Here is some comment about "The Gold Diggers" as a stage attraction: "A happily written comedy-drama in which Ina Claire, under direction of David Belasco, scored the big success of her artistic career during its two years of record-breaking business at the Belasco theater, New York. 'Gold Diggers,' in photoplay form, promises to become the outstanding comedy creation of a year that will be notable for its many fine screen attainments."

In England it is considered bad form to make an open show of sentiment. In the United States young folks think nothing of uttering cooing words, exchanging flirtatious glances or even of appearing in public with "his" arms about "her" waist.

Women enjoy wearing tight clothes because it makes them feel so good when they take them off.

MRS. W. LAUREN HYDE ENTERTAINS AT LUNCHEON

Mrs. W. Lauren Hyde of 524 W. Alexander street entertained a number of friends at a 1 o'clock bridge luncheon last Thursday afternoon. A yellow and orange color scheme was charmingly carried out through the house. Mrs. La Bell won the first prize in bridge and Mrs. Mallory the consolation prize.

The guests included Mrs. J. K. Kergard and Mrs. Carter Mallory of Long Beach; Mrs. Hunter and Mrs. Vivian Peters of Hollywood.

MRS. LA BELL OF BEVERLY HILLS, MRS. T. H. MENK AND MRS. SEARLES OF GLENDALE.

Runaway boy is picked up here. Earl Hayward, aged 15 years, who, police state, ran away from his home in Phoenix, Arizona, some time ago, was picked up at the corner of San Fernando and Log Feliz road at 4:30 o'clock Sunday. He is being held and the police department of his home town is being notified.

DE MOLAYS CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY SUCCESSFULLY

De Molays of Glendale and their friends revelled Saturday evening at the dance given them by the Past Members' association at the Masonic Temple. Music was furnished by the California Orkney Orchestra. Decorations were of purple and white, the chapter colors. The floor of the temple was in excellent condition, making for a most successful dance.

W. L. Twining is absent from his office today on account of illness.

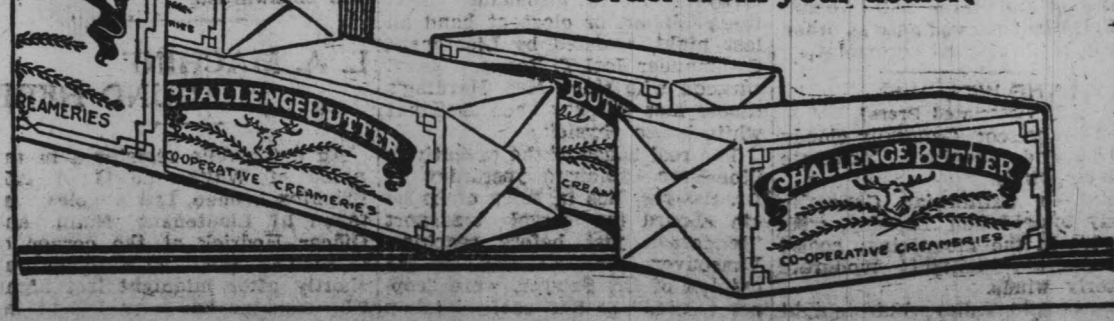

CHALLENGE BUTTER

Adds 100% Value To Sandwiches

Any sandwich will taste better with plenty of butter. It not only improves the taste but "Challenge," the better butter, adds 100% to the actual food value of the sandwich. Pure butter contains a remarkably high percentage of wholesome nutriment. "Challenge" is the purest and best butter you can buy.

'PAWNED' STILL AT GATEWAY FOR TODAY

Local motion picture devotees will find something greatly to their liking in "Pawned," the J. Parker Head, Jr., production, which is running at the Gateway theater.

There have been photoplays made in which the acting was better, in which the story told was more reasonable—but few photoplays have been made which provide a greater measure of the kind of entertainment which the average motion picture fan expects when he pays his money at the box office.

Here's the story: A young American temporarily stranded in the South Sea Isles, makes a bargain with the wealthy proprietor of a string of gambling casinos throughout the world, to conduct a secret investigation for him. He leaves the Orient after an exciting fight and lands in New York to fulfill his mission. There he encounters a beautiful young girl, daughter of an old pawn broker whose trade is helped by the gambling casinos. He falls in love with the girl, and she with him. The girl is being annoyed by a young physician, a drug addict, who wants to marry her and immediately begins plotting against the man for whom the girl is showing a fondness. The story ends with the spectacular defeat of the drug addict and the "happily ever after" of the young couple.

On this skeleton there has been constructed a photoplay which has more thrills in it than the average "serial." There are fights, galore, there is the mysterious incident of the transmission of a message with the aid of invisible ink, and finally there is the high dive of a speeding automobile from the deck of a ferryboat into the water below.

Altogether, "Pawned" provides an abundance of almost blood-curdling thrills.

Tom Moore and Edith Roberts, both widely known among picture fans, have the featured roles. James Barrows gives a really remarkable performance in the role of an old cab driver who has "pawned his soul to drink."

The successful manicurist has plenty of business on hand.

Cupid denies all connection with bargain-counter marriages.

SOUL CARE IS TOPIC OF REV. L. J. MILLIKEN

Despite the vacation season attendance of both the Sunday school and preaching service was well up to the average yesterday. In the absence of Mrs. Knight the duties of pianist were performed by Mrs. Newman. Professor Whiteaker sang most beautifully, "Love Hideth Me." Rev. L. J. Milliken, the pastor, used for his discourse "Caring for Souls," Psalm 142:4, "No one careth for my soul."

He said in part: "This is a testimony that brings a pain to my heart. The thought that even one soul is being neglected should arouse every child of God to service, for there is no neglect that can compare to the neglect of a human soul. Neglect has been the tragedy of all ages, for it has wrecked and ruined homes, business careers, and degraded and destroyed civilizations."

"What is implied in caring for a soul is contained in just one word, Love. Before we can love a human soul we must first love God with all our heart, otherwise we are not capable of truly loving and serving souls. There is nothing more beautiful or significant than service for others, and if you would have your name written in history, or indelibly enrolled in the book of life, be a servant for love's sake. Love carries with it proof at times, but oh how careful we should be at such a time! Before we attempt to administer a reproof we should be sure that our own life is worthy of such a duty. No Christian should submit without protest, to the foul profanity that is daily thrown out into the ears of civilized people. Do not smile at it but rebuke it in God's name. Love will also lend cheer and encouragement, and many men have been saved from ruin and failure by encouraging words."

"In a sense we are responsible for our fellows, and especially for our loved ones. When God commits to us a precious child He places on us the responsibility of that child, and if we are true parents we will early teach that child the principles of righteousness, God and heaven. Loving mothers should depend on no one, not even on the minister, for the spiritual care of her children, but should be jealous of the privilege of herself bringing her child to Jesus."

Lots of men get rich by informing others how to make fortunes and charging for the information.

PURELY PERSONAL

Miss Elizabeth Stevens of Wilson and Glendale avenue, with a party of friends, is this week motoring to the Santa Cruz mountains for a two weeks' outing there.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Rowe of South Orange, returned Friday evening from a month's auto trip which delighted them very much. They covered about 4000 miles of road and visited friends in Portland, Tacoma and Oakland. Their farthest point north was Seattle, and they took in Ranier national park, climbing above the snow line just for the experience. They also visited the caves near Grant's Pass and the big trees at Santa Cruz. The country in Washington and Oregon they found very beautiful at this season, but their hearts are still true to California. They likewise rode over the beautiful Columbia river drive.

MRS. GILLISPIE IS GUEST OF HONOR

Mrs. Robert Gillispie of San Francisco, who is visiting Mrs. Ernest A. Carr of 1120 San Rafael avenue, was the guest of honor at a picnic party given Sunday at Brookside park, Pasadena. The following were those who enjoyed the picnic dinner: Mrs. Gillispie, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Dorlon and daughter Jacqueline of Eagle Rock, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brennan of Eagle Rock, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Vallenzuela and sons, Frederick Jr. and Edward, of Los Angeles, Mr. Thraime of San Francisco and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Carr. Bathing and games were participated in during the afternoon, and in the evening the party motored to Mrs. Carr's residence where they enjoyed music and refreshments.

ROOTS ENTERTAIN NAVAJO NEEDLE WORK CLUB

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Root of 425 West Lomita avenue entertained the members of the Navajo Needlework club and their husbands at a dinner party on Saturday night. Japanese decorations were carried out throughout the house, the table decorations being of lavender asters. The evening was spent in playing "500." Prizes were awarded to Mrs. L. O. Carlisle and E. O. Carlisle.

Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Waite, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Koontz, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Overton, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Carlisle, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Carlisle, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Carlisle and the host and hostess.

LEGION NEWS

For God and Country, we associate ourselves together for the following purposes: To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate a one hundred per cent. Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the Great War; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation toward the community, state and nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness. Preamble to the Constitution of the American Legion.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—"If they come by automobile, we can readily provide suitable parking privileges for their motor caravans with splendid camping facilities for the motorists; if they arrive here in Pullman cars, which they propose occupying during their stay here in San Francisco, we can take care of the cars and occupants on sidings located very close to the downtown district; and, if they desire to be up in hotels, we can take good care of them, in the same efficient, satisfactory and reasonable manner as has been done in numerous great conventions held here in the past."

Lieutenant General Hunter Liggett, general chairman of the American Legion's national convention committee, was speaking; and his message was directed in response to inquiries made by National Adjutant Lemuel Bolles, and other Legion officials, who conferred here recently with officials of the national convention committee, preparing for the Legion's great national convocation of next October.

General Liggett's aides in charge of the railroad transportation and parking, automobile accommodations and housing committees, are giving these important problems careful and sincere attention. The San Francisco convention committee has issued strict instructions, however, that all reservations for rooms and accommodations in restaurants must be made through the state adjutants of their various departments; and no reservations or requests for bookings coming direct from posts or individuals will be honored.

Information regarding the national convention preparations or program, will be promptly supplied all parties requesting same, upon application to Joe O'Connor, executive secretary, American Legion, 1923 national convention, Palace hotel, San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—Aroused by the fraudulent activities of swindlers who have gouged the public by representing themselves as veterans, Morgan Keaton, department adjutant of the American Legion of California, is taking drastic steps to suppress spurious veterans' magazine publications.

The Legion has discovered that many persons who did not serve in the war are wearing badges, buttons, medals and even decorations for valor with a view of enlisting public sympathy for various questionable projects.

The publishers of spurious veterans' magazines have increased their operations to such an extent that they have gleaned more than five million dollars from the public within a period of fourteen months, according to Keaton's information. Salesmen often peddle the publications with the plea of "help ex-soldiers," proceeds "disabled men"; wounded myself in France, and cannot get a job." In most cases the peddlers were not in the war and many agents were found to have bought "wound buttons" from private concerns. Magazines have been disposed of, some at twenty-five cents a copy, entailing a profit of from 17 to 19 cents.

"This situation tends to injure and is harmful and detrimental to the interests of all veterans," said Adjutant Keaton, "tends to lessen the respect and regard which the people necessarily and properly hold for them, exploits the patriotism of and degrades all veterans for the benefit of a few and permits gross frauds upon the public in the name of the veterans of the world war." Keaton hopes to secure the aid of the clubs, chambers of commerce, and police authorities in his campaign.

Lots of husbands and wives agree that they made the mistake of their lives by marrying.

PASTOR PARMELE SPEAKS ABOUT MEMORIALS

He hath made His wonderful works to be remembered, Psalms 111:4. Was the text used by Pastor Parmele at the Seventh-day Adventist church last night. The pastor believes that many of the events in the earth life of Christ have their memorials, enjoyed by the Saviour himself, and that for some of these there have been inquired counterfeits. He said in part:

"Take, for instance, the process of conversion. The first act in

Classified Is Fixed Wealth

If all the dollars invested in Glendale real estate and business were piled in one heap—how high do you think that heap would be?

Of course, it would be impossible to perform such a feat, but it is possible to view most of these dollars in their integral shape of fixed wealth.

The classified department of any newspaper is an exposition of the invested wealth of any community, being converted through its pages, back to liquid, cash and assets, into silver and greenbacks.

The Glendale Daily Press, in these classified columns, indexes these assets. A capitulation of the value of each lot, of each house, and of each business would be an astonishing exposition of the turning of money into property and of the returning of property back into currency.

How many houses valued at $5,000 do you see offered for sale? How many at $10,000? How many lots? How many businesses for sale? Not less than half a million dollars' worth of property is offered every day in the Glendale Daily Press to those who would convert their ready cash into fixed assets in property. Possibly much more is offered. This does not mean that there is a bear market in real estate. It does mean, that distress or ambition has knocked on the doors of the owners of these properties. The knock that means distress to one individual is echoed by the rap of opportunity on another's door.

When one must sell, it means turning fixed assets into liquid assets. Glendale may lose one citizen, while it gains another in the buyer. There is just so much property for sale.

The study of this changing current of currency from fixed to liquid wealth is the study of values that is making wealth and has made wealth for speculators and investors for income.

It is a study which is open to all who seek a better investment of ready cash; for those who seek to make their dollars work to the last degree of energy.

Human life and progress today is so constituted that 50 per cent of profit by one man is made on the other man's misfortune. There is no loss without a gain to some one.

Study the classified columns until you get the angle and see only the investment opportunities for you presented in each offering. Then you will understand why the classified advertisement is the real news of the growth of Glendale, the record of the letting go because of many things, and the seizing of opportunity at the right moment. Between the two lies profit in Glendale.

On Sunday morning, Rev. Henry O. Kringle of the Concordia Lutheran congregation, delivered a stirring address on a timely topic, namely, "Infidelity." The speaker said in part:

"Why do ye not believe Me? This question is asked by the Lord Jesus in our gospel text, John 8:46-59. The Jews to whom the question was directed answered with scorn and malediction.

"In our days men generally couch their answer to this question in polite words. If you ask an infidel, 'Why do you not believe in Christ?' he will say: 'I cannot; I would like to, but I am sorry to say, I cannot.'

"Let us not be deceived by these pretensions of infidels when they say that they would like to believe on the Lord Jesus, but that they could not, because they were too highly educated; they knew too much; they had made a thorough study of the laws of nature, had traveled and seen so much of the world, and the like. Infidelity has not monopolized education—never will. Among the greatest men, the wisest, the highest men in literature, there always have been, and there are to this day, professed Christians. Washington professed the Christian faith, and so did Newton and Noah Webster. Gladstone, one of the greatest statesmen that ever lived, was a believer in Christ; and many learned men of our days are at the same time prominent men in the Christian faith.

"I say, learning and education are not barriers against the Christian faith. The true cause of infidelity is always to be found in man's will. A person may think that he does not believe because he cannot on account of his own convictions to the contrary, but if he will examine his own heart honestly and sincerely, he will always find that he does not like to part with some pet sin, or that he is loath to put up with some things that true believers must endure.

This is shown in our gospel by the example of the Jews with whom Jesus disputed in the temple.

"Why is it that so many cannot believe in the Lord Jesus Christ? The answer is threefold: Because they do not want to hear the truth, because they despise the Lord's grace, and also, because Christ's divinity is foolishness to them.

"Let us not be deceived by the pretensions of infidels, when they say that they feel sorry because they can not believe in the Lord Jesus. Whosoever is sorry for his infidelity, in him God has already begun His work; and his sorrow, if true, will soon turn into joy and saving faith.

"The Lord grant unto us all His grace that we may not resist His Holy Spirit, but yield to the life-giving power of His Word, and be like with all our souls on Him who has bought us with His own precious blood and with His innocent suffering and death. Yea, and in Acts 4, 12, we read: 'Neither is there salvation in any other; for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved.' Therefore, as Peter says, 'Believe in the Lord Jesus, and thou shalt be saved.'

If we could see ourselves as others see us we wouldn't believe quite all we'd see.

YOSEMITE INDIAN FIELD DAYS FETE

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif., July 30 (U. P.).—All is in readiness here, for the annual Yosemite Indian Field days celebration, August 3 and 4. Many of the Indians from the Mono Lake and Bishop country are already here, some coming to see President Harding on his trip here.

The Indians' exhibit and stunts promise to be as savage and wild as anyone could desire. War dances, fancy roping and riding, and exhibitions of baskets are planned. A baby show will also be held, and many a gorgeous outfit will surround a smiling papoose.

If we could see ourselves as others see us we wouldn't believe quite all we'd see.

Truths in Epigram

"NEVER AGAIN"

A number of people, including many of high purpose, are appealing to the country to declare there shall be no more war. In addition to those whose motives are lofty, there must be suspected the presence of others stirred by sinister designs.

Nobody wants war. The common thought of this country is that war is a horror. War deliberately planned for conquest would be a measureless crime. If civilization had reached the plane towards which the spiritual side is striving, war would be rated as an utter impossibility. Accepting facts as they are, it cannot immediately be made an impossibility. Not even frenzied circulars headed "Never Again" can have this benign influence. Not even the shrewd planning of disguised enemies of the government, covertly working with its mistaken friends, will be permitted to render this country helpless.

The particular group of pacifists under consideration desire to make the country helpless. By some peculiar process of reasoning they figure that were the United States to junk every instrumentality of defense, dissipate its army and navy, baring itself unarmored to a hostile world from which it has declared its intention to hold aloof, it would be safe and the world would be safe. In opposition to such a grotesque conclusion there is no occasion to advance an argument. The absurdity of the proposition is its defeat.

Children are still being taught patriotism. They are still instructed that love of country is a laudable trait, and that it may involve the duty of saving the country from aggression. This the pacifists deplore. At the present status of human affairs the rich and powerful government that deliberately assumes a position of helplessness would be effaced.

Force remains as ever an essential. The plea for universal peace, coming from a source wholly incompetent to back its beliefs by action, would elicit no response save in the form of contempt and aggression. Could all nations be induced simultaneously to disarm, the case would be different. They cannot be so induced, and the case remains as it is. There are wars now. There may be more wars. This country will not precipitate any, but by being reasonably prepared, competent to present a brave front, it may prevent any from touching its own shores.

For one nation to disarm, all the rest being jealous of its wealth, and weary of poverty, but panopied as for battle, would be suicide, nothing less.

EXPLAINING A SITUATION

There is much complaint that the government falls far short of ideals. This does not mean the national government alone. It may be said also of state and municipal governments. The outcry is directed principally, however, to national affairs. The claim is made, and abundant evidence supports it, that congress fails of its duty, that bureaus do not function as they should; that partisanship is stronger than fealty to the whole commonwealth; that the men elected to office, do not, as a rule present the high purpose supposed to be the reason they were chosen. Nor are they of the intellectual caliber that might be expected, and that the country really needs whether or not it deserves.

A political writer of authority, basing his statement on records, affirms that only 50 per cent of the qualified voters appear at the polls even in elections of the most momentous import. Under a constitution that declares for majority rule, it hardly could have been contemplated that the majority in question was to be determined by half of the total of citizens. In the light of these figures the majority is merely the majority of a fraction. Had the men and women who should have voted, not failed to do so, the outcome might have been different, and the majority really represent the opinion of citizens as a whole.

The fact may be taken for granted that the professional politician is alert. He depends not alone on bringing out the voters of whose support he is assured. Part of his dependence rests on the inert citizenship that refrains from expressing itself save by belated and impotent protest. It refrains for various reasons. It is careless, lazy, or benumbed by the belief that it could do nothing to prevent the politician from having his way. It has no slogan, but in place of a slogan, asks "Oh what's the use?" Later it repines at results and abuses the victors.

A government by the people cannot be expected to operate satisfactorily when half the people neglect it.

AN EYE ON ALASKA

President Harding was received in Alaska with peculiar satisfaction. There was a certain novelty to the occasion, but this was far from being the chief point of interest. Alaska is, and has been, a little known land. The ignorance concerning it as manifested in congress for years has been pitiable. To many public men it has been little more than a name. At times it has seemed to fall into the hands of the spoilers. There has been evidence that some influence, not of the government and not of the people, was shaping its destinies. There were broad hints of monopoly; of gigantic resources getting into the control of a few. It was time for the several branches of the government to be getting knowledge at first hand. Doubtless the President, trained as a newspaper man, went to Alaska with open mind, ready to see for himself, and to receive impressions not from rumor but through contact with fact.

From time to time there have been official commissions to investigate some phase of Alaskan development. As a rule these have accomplished nothing. The men composing them have been the guests of the concerns accused of exerting too great an influence and absorbing too great a share of the natural resources. They were no more in position to procure information than are the Americans who go to Russia to become the pampered guests of Lenin. Alaska stands as the greatest real estate bargain ever consummated. It is a region of vast possibilities. The government has done much towards opening it, and clearing the way for its development. But who shall garner the fruits of this development? How shall the best interests of the people of Alaska, not a small group of them, but the whole citizenry, be met? These are questions that doubtless the President is better fitted to answer since he has looked at the situation at close and intimate range.

Arrival of a delegation of Brooklyn school marm in southern California was marked by a temblor quite impressive and harmless. Few visitors have the distinction to be welcomed in such spectacular fashion.

San Diego has a fine display in the rooms of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce. Fifty years ago the two towns used to say mean things about each other, but now they are bigger in material size and in spirit.

RIP VAN WINKLE TO DATE

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Rip Van Winkle slept 20 years. True, he did not know it, but he was the only person in the room who didn't. The subject of his talk was women in office and he announced his abject astonishment, his amazement, almost his consternation to discover that women could actually sit on a jury and exercise judgment, weigh evidence and exert self control.

And we have been voting for almost 12 years. The gentleman was delighted to find that women could set guard on their "delicate nervous systems" which he appeared to believe are composed of some kind of high explosives and so likely at any minute to go off and wreck things.

Since the gentleman has so recently awakened it may be unkind to startle him, but there are a few observations that may with profit be made on this "delicate nervous system" delusion. If our nervous systems are as explosive as currently believed by the Rip Van Winkles of the day how does it come that men have been willing to intrust to us so long the exclusive rearing and care of their children? Certainly a very young child should not be under the guardianship of people with unstable nerves, likely at any minute to lose poise and judgment as a result of these "natural functions" which have so terrified men like the one I'm writing about.

Now if this astonished being will make a trip to San Quentin or any other penitentiary, or if he will just stick around the criminal courts awhile, or even the police courts, and will open his mind while there, he will see things that ought to lead him to a few profitable reflections on the nervous makeup of his own sex. He might for example reflect on the connection between unstable nerves and the collection of black eyes, bruised cheeks and cut bodies that appear before their honors when the doors of the police courts are opened in the mornings. Nervous women cry; we admit it, but nervous men fight; and between fighting and crying the latter is the less harmful—at least to others.

Extending his reflections further afield he might wonder why it is any stranger for women to exercise judgment and self control in a jury box than in every day life. That they do exercise more self control than men in daily contacts is amply proved by the proportion of men and women arrested and convicted of crime. Find the penitentiary where women predominate. I am aware of the popular delusion that women are "better than men."

May it not be that their nervous systems, those terrifying "unstable" makeups, are as a matter of fact less explosive than the nervous systems of men? If not, how does it come that the majority of crimes of violence are committed by men?

This is not written with any idea of reflecting on the men; it is merely a slight effort to arouse the slumberers.

We are living in the twentieth century and it's time we made a nice funeral pyre and on it cremated the delusions and falsehoods and absurdities of the past.

And when we consider nervous systems what shall we say about a man who can be thrown into a back alley at the idea of women serving on juries or acting as judges? In the language of a wag of my acquaintance we can only conclude that he is two jumps ahead of a fit and losing ground all the time.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

FOUND IN A MANUSCRIPT.

(Find the error in this article.)

While preparing the manuscript of a book for the printer, I found many common errors, a few of which are mentioned below:

1. Error: "Education was in a process of development."

1. Criticism: Since it was the intention of the author to convey the idea of education in its present status, the sentence should have read as follows: Education has been in a process of development.

2. Error: "... yet the public benefits"

2. Criticism: When the author wrote "the public benefits," he meant that we all benefit. The right word is benefit, not benefits.

3. Error: "... where the give and take is equal."

3. Criticism: Give and take are two distinctly different ideas. The right word, therefore, is are; as, where the give and take are equal.

Vocabulary

A lackey is an attending servant; a runner; a footboy or footman; hence, any servile follower; as, "A very monster in apparel, and not like a Christian footboy, or a gentleman's lackey."—Shakespeare.

Queries

Carl Auld: "Why is it incorrect to say 'all afternoon' instead of 'all the afternoon'?"

Answer: The article the should precede the name of something, which is concrete; as, the house, the day. Usage makes the arrangement all the afternoon correct.

A. T. M.: "A says the word discretionary is used frequently; as, You are not very discretionary. B claims it would be better English to say, 'You are not very discrete.' Will you kindly settle the dispute?"

Answer: B is right. Examples: He is discrete in all that he does; He was given discretionary orders.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

The best restraint is self restraint. The restraint that is voluntarily imposed. Because reason says it should be imposed. That kind of restraint implies reason, courage, strength, will.

That is the difference between man and the lower animals. Self restraint.

A horse turned loose in a field of lush grass will over eat.

Eat to the point of self destruction. Eat until the system can not assimilate the food.

Because taste to the horse is presumably the one thing outstanding. And so the horse, with other animals, gorges himself.

No reason is exercised because there is no reason to be exercised.

Civilization has brought a measure of self restraint with it. Not as much of it as might be ideally desired.

But self restraint to a certain degree. Because it has been discovered that civilization cannot continue to exist without a measure of self restraint.

While we have many laws and many officers to enforce laws, it would be impossible to have laws enough and officers enough to prevent all things that might be done to the injury of society.

So self restraint began first to be imposed perhaps many thousands of years ago.

Men learned to care for the caves or houses in which they lived.

Not perhaps because of a fondness for labor.

But because they discovered it to be necessary if their caves or houses were to remain habitable.

Men learned restraint in eating. Because of the rebellion of nature against gluttony.

They learned restraint with respect to the property of others. Because they desired protection in their own property.

They learned to restrain their tempers. Their tongues. Their appetites.

A government by proper self restraint is better than a government by enforced restraint. Because one is a government of temperate and reasonable citizens.

And the other is more likely to be a government of citizens who refuse to restrain themselves for the interest of society.

To a certain degree we are becoming a government of enforced restraint rather than of self restraint.

The number of what are called sumptuary laws would indicate that. And yet many persons are never taught the virtues of self restraint.

In places where characters are formed and habits are acquired and knowledge is taught, there is too little attention paid to the matter of self restraint.

Self restraint not only for the good of the individual but for the good of all individuals in a society.

We need self restraint in appetite. In speech. In desire. In all of the things that go to make up individual character.

These have the art of praising Beauty so high. Sweet, you are praised in a silence, Sung in a sigh.

I, too, would sing for your praising, Dearest, had I Speech as the whispering grass, Or the silent sky.

These have the art of praising Beauty so high. Sweet, you are praised in a silence, Sung in a sigh.

THE LAST GENERATION

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A GENERATION of mankind is supposed to be about thirty-three years.

The last generation is undoubtedly the most amazing which mankind has ever experienced. More significant events have occurred in it than in any other epoch of equal length.

During this time there took place the most destructive war in history, and radical changes in such vast empires as Russia, Germany, China and Austria.

I have just completed a journey from Montreal to Yokohama. The railroad on which I traveled as far as Vancouver crossed the American continent over vast plains and huge mountains, and my train was on time at every station. This railroad itself has developed during the last generation and is a part of one of the greatest transportation systems in the world.

Whereas two or three generations ago the pioneers were painfully trekking in covered wagons over this route, fighting for their existence against wild animals and savage Indians, I made the journey on the train housed as luxuriously as if I were in a New York club.

I found Vancouver, situated in British Columbia on the Pacific shore, to be a bustling modern city as busy and as up-to-date as Paris or St. Louis, having miles of paved streets, street car lines, office buildings and residential suburbs as considerable as any metropolis—yet it has all grown up from nothing in the last generation.

I crossed the Pacific on a steamship as comfortable and seven as luxuriously as anything on the Atlantic.

When I reached Japan I found a country which is one of the greatest nations of the world, enlightened and progressive.

Yet when Commodore Matthew Calbraith Perry anchored an American fleet in a Japanese harbor in July, 1853, Japan did not have even the beginning of a national army, of an ocean-going mercantile marine, of a telegraph or postal system, of a newspaper press, of an enlightened code of justice with organized tribunals, had no conception of parliamentary institutions or constitutional government, was divided into a number of feudal principalities, each virtually independent of the other, and all alike untrained in the spirit of nationality.

In thirty years, says Brinkley, from whom I have quoted the above, these conditions have absolutely changed. The whole country was united under one administration, feudalism was abolished, representative and constitutional government was adopted, telegraph and railways cover the island, national system of education was inaugurated and universities established, a powerful fleet scientifically managed came into existence and the country won the respect of all foreign powers unreservedly.

The year 1912 inaugurated what is known in Japan as the Taisho Era ("Way of Heaven," or "Era of Great Equity"). Let us hope that this same era which began so stormily in the western world may brighten to similar promise.

MR. BRYAN'S CANDIDATE [Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph] Mr. Bryan denies that he is backing Mr. McAdoo for the democratic presidency nomination. W. J. B. is understood to favor the selection of a good man from Florida, one also familiar with the west from previous residence in Nebraska, who can make eloquent speeches and who indignantly repels the insinuation that he ever had an ape for an ancestor. If such a candidate can be found Mr. Bryan is prepared to give him vigorous support.

AFTER BOK'S $100,000 [Cincinnati Enquirer] In order to save from wasted effort entrance Mr. Bok's $100,000 prize for the best plan to secure world peace, we herewith propose our own incontrovertible suggestion, to wit. Let Uncle Sam solemnly and faithfully agree to pay all of the world's past, present and future debts. Now, if Mr. Bok is a scholar and a gentleman, he will forward our check at once.

WHAT EVERY WOMAN KNOWS [Atchison Globe] Nearly every woman loves to recall the time when the doctors nearly gave her up.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

The woman who ran her machine over a boy in Los Angeles, and went on without pausing to ask whether he had been seriously injured, acquired something to think about for a long time. The boy was dead as she drove away. Her thoughts in this connection will not be pleasing. It is not to be supposed that any woman could be so utterly heartless as not to experience remorse in the circumstances.

Naturally the police are looking for her. Perhaps she would be glad in the end, were they to find her. It may be that the tragedy was accident, and her after-act due to uncontrollable fright. But even were the fault her own, she doubtless would feel better by taking the penalty.

Police do not like the parole law. It gives them an extra amount to do, and it exposes them to superfluous danger. In many cases the paroled convict clings to his criminal practices. Had he been kept in prison he must have been hampered in this respect. But he also is more desperate, understanding that if arrested for fresh offense his punishment is reasonably certain. Therefore he is ready to kill the representative of the law.

Not all paroled convicts are much inconvenienced by rearrest. Instances have been known in which periods of parole have overlapped. Thus one enterprising criminal was able to survive two life terms and other sentences aggregating 400 years on paper.

The late Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota came to this country as a boy. He loved his adopted land, fought for it when a young man, prospered by the opportunities it afforded. Finally he entered its service as senator, dying in the public station he had honored.

Senator-elect Magnus Johnson came to this country, too, like Nelson, hailing from Scandinavia. He prospered. He was elected to the senate. There the similarity ends. Instead of being grateful Johnson rails against the government that gave him a chance, and far from taking the attitude of a patriot, expresses such sentiments that his elevation is regarded by the people of the whole country as a calamity.

The United States has been so good to Johnson that he resents it. The people of this country have a wholly friendly feeling for China, and wish it well, but this without seeing very clearly any method of making it well. China has lasted a long time. In this period it has been subjected to many distressing and strenuous experiences, from all of which it has emerged with its Oriental calm not markedly perturbed.

Senator Underwood has been telling the people of the south that disaster to the wheat crop of the north would be seriously felt in their own section. Doubtless they already were aware of this, but the senator may have set them to thinking about it more keenly.

Hoover has a plan for saving the forests. The purpose of such a plan is laudable. The working out of details is easily within the scope of human intelligence. The forests are one of the great assets of the country, and they are being deliberately destroyed for no other reason than a pestilential and unthinking greed.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

WORK

"Must I be carried to the skies On flowery beds of ease While others fought to win the prize Or sailed through bloody seas?"

"Yes, why not? Why take it hard if I can take it easy," says the "regular" fellow, boy and girl, in the student body, elementary or college.

Someway the idea that working hard for something is not "the thing." To be truly of the hour one must but dip into the spring, flutter one's wings and warble a glad song of springtime.

"Mercy me," thrills one young lady. "Tomorrow I have to hand in a report on the 'Idylls of the King.' What do I know about them? Nothing. Look at them. When'd I ever get through that?"

"But you must have known that you had that report to make. Why haven't you prepared for it?" asks mother.

"No time, no time, mother darling. That stuff would take an age I'll get by somehow."

"Look it up in 'Digested Readings,'" draws sister from her pillow nest on the couch. "Saves all that reading."

Bob slouches down in his chair drearily scowling at the pages of his history. "Bob, sit up. You'll get more done. Are you working at your history?"

"Yes, Mr. Hartley says if I don't get a better mark this month he'll flunk me. I can't see any use in this stuff."

"Are you taking notes as you read? I told you to do that and it would help you to know what to study and give you a chance to review quickly."

"O, that's too much work. All that writing."

"Bring me your book and I'll see what you've learned. Let's see. Rights of citizens. Suffrage. What is meant by the Bill of Rights?"

"O, he won't ask us that. That's in the fine print. All I got to know is the big print. Ask me that."

What these young citizens need is the knowledge that work is bound up in anything that they will ever hope to accomplish. Work that demands a steady, close application to the job in hand until it is finished. Work that calls for a bent back and a nose pointed toward the center of interest, and held there until the last move is made and the answer stands out clean and clear whether it is an equation cleared or a patch of potatoes hoed.

If the youngsters have left school this June with a glossed over job and the "flowery bed" idea, can't you dig up a job for them that will point them toward honest-to-goodness work? Vacation need not be empty.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

It happened at the movies last night. Bad luck surrounded me with a bunch of the half-baked girl babies who call themselves flappers and are not. A real flapper is one thing, and a girl who daubs herself with paint and bobs her hair is very often another. But let that pass.

"Clack-clack-clack," went their busy tongues.

"I didn't care—much. I'm used to 'em. When I go to a movie now I fully expect to be seated near some one who cannot keep quiet. In most cases it is a combination of nerves and emptiness in the brain pan. Just as certain sea-shells always murmur when you put them to your ears. The analogy isn't complete, of course. Anyhow—"

These kids were mighty near disgusting. I'm not to be worried by a little spiciness among the girl children. That's fashion. Next year they may shudder at the sight of naked fingers. Some of the most entertaining people I know are wicked as Captain Kidd. Nor am I to be abashed by nastiness, if it is clever. But when I hear mere vulgarity—sheer, dirty, back-alley, gutter vulgarity—I am revolted. So is every one else. The man next me turned in his seat and regarded them.

"Three of you are ashamed of what she is saying," he said. "She is ashamed, too. But she wants to attract attention. She would pretend to be vulgar, and she only knows how to be vulgar."

They hissed and clacked behind our backs. Then the little vulgar went out, alone. I think she was crying. The other girls huddled together.

"She is perfectly disgusting," they said. "Common—low. Let's drop her."

Yet they had been egging her on until the stranger held up his mirror.

RETURN TO POWER OF BRANTING TO AID GERMANS

By HERBERT COREY
STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 30.—Hjalmar Branting expects to return to power in September. That means that the German position in Europe will be strengthened.

"This deduction seems reasonable in view of the statements of the premier and most powerful statesman of Sweden made to me. His words were:

"No country has the right to occupy a portion of the land of another country in times of peace. That is against actual human opinion (sic).

"Sweden is suffering by reason of the occupation of the Ruhr. The ore which we have to sell is not going out, and the iron which we need is not coming in."

Franco-German Problem
Herr Branting, however, did not further endorse the German position. He declared that:

"If France had received the impression of good will from Germany she would have acted differently. German public opinion is poisoned by suffering, and the Junkers and the bankers refuse to make the concessions needed. They are supported by a large portion of the German press. It is true that the occupation of the Ruhr might be defended from the juridical points of view, as based on the Versailles treaty. But a treaty which is inimical to human rights cannot be defended."

Herr Branting indicated that he hopes for a larger activity on the part of England.

Will Follow Lord Robert Cecil
"Lord Robert Cecil as cabinet minister and in his capacity as one of the leaders of the League of Nations can do much," he said. "I will follow him."

Herr Branting's statements are of importance because of his position. He is the leader of the Socialist party, but Socialism in Sweden is only liberalism. He seems to have the confidence of the leaders of public opinion and works in a fair degree of harmony even with the Conservatives. The king of Sweden has on numerous occasions given evidence of trust and liking. Branting's party lost power not long ago, but it is almost admitted by his opponents that he will return to office as premier in September. He makes that statement without qualification.

"Out of 213 in the legislature we will have a certainty of 106 votes," he said, "and a reasonable assurance of 116 on most occasions."

Bettering World Conditions
He believes that there is a "strong opinion" in France that the occupation of the Ruhr should not be continued and that "if Germany were to offer something real" a working arrangement could soon be secured. "In a month world conditions could be bettered after an agreement is reached." But he does not suggest that such an agreement can be reached at present. It is a fair assumption from his statement of his hope that Great Britain will take a more active part that he would favor action by the other nations to bring France and Germany into agreement.

So far as his domestic policy is concerned he plans to reduce the Swedish army to an absolute minimum and to bring about a greater measure of cooperation between workmen and employers. Of the first he said that:

No Danger Now From Russia
"The Swedish position is bettered. There is no longer a Russian danger. Russia manifests no hostility, and the four border states of Finland, Estonia, Lithuania and Poland intervene between us. But we have not yet the courage to do away with the principle of conscription. The most we can do is to retain scant cadres in our regular army and to require two months' training of our annual crop of young men."

There is no longer any danger to be feared from Bolshevism in Sweden, he said. Bolshevism has disproven itself. People are realizing that world improvement must be a matter of evolution. "We cannot do overnight what must be a matter of ten years' work." Sweden was in entire sympathy with the revolution by which the Czar was overthrown, but not at all with the revolution headed by Lenin. There were professing Bolsheviks in Sweden at one time, but they are rapidly disappearing.

Swedish Capital and Labor
Of the betterment of relations between capital and labor, for which he proposes to work, he declared that this can only be secured by a bettering of understanding on both sides. Swedish labor is fairly well educated for the most part, and has understood that conditions which existed during the war boom period cannot continue. It has assented peaceably to the cuts in wages which have been forced by conditions.

"If Swedish labor had not been intelligent and educated it might not have shown such good will," said he. "Capital, unfortunately, has not displayed an equally unanimous common sense."

One hope he has for the future is that some means may be devised by which "there shall be more safety on the farms. Our young people are leaving the farms for the cities, as are yours. It is not so easy to say what can be done. We are forming clubs for the encouragement of the community spirit, at which dancing and entertainments are offered for the entertainment of the youth. But more is needed."

Regrets U. S. Immigration Law
Herr Branting regrets the American immigration law. "We are glad that the United States wants our people to come," said he. "We feel a very near kinship for your people and your land, but we feel that your immigration law was bungled. Surely they wish to borrow."

Japanese Tennis Champion Now on American Courts

Here is Masamasa Fukuda, latest Japanese tennis star to arrive in the United States, who undoubtedly will be a member of the Nipponese Davis Cup team. This photograph was made while he was playing in an invitation tournament of the Westchester-Biltmore Country Club, at Rye, N. Y.

you should be able to devise a law by which you can admit desirable immigrants and keep others out. There is, however, a feeling in Sweden that the continued export of the young people is not to be encouraged. An effort is being made—it is the dominating thought of the great Gothenburg exposition should be encouraged, in order that there shall be sufficient work to keep the youth at home.

"It is easy to destroy," said Sweden's Grand Old Man, with a sigh. "It is not so easy to build."

WHAT ABOUT THE MILLENNIUM, ASKS MR. ABERHART

The congregation of the Presbyterian church listened Sunday morning with deep earnestness and appreciation to a weighty sermon from Mr. Wm. Aberhart, educator and outstanding Christian layman of Calgary, Alberta. His theme was "What About the Millennium?" and his text was taken from Christ's words to His disciples, found in Matthew 19:28: "Ye who have followed me, in the regeneration (literally re-creation) when the Son of man shall sit in the throne of His glory, ye also shall sit upon twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel." A brief outline follows:

Here we have a wonderful truth, given in answer to the question Peter had asked. "We have forsaken all and followed Thee, what shall we have therefore?" In that blessed time, Peter, you will not be sorry for the hard things you have had. There is going to be that good time that we think of and sing of. Prophecy tells us of a glorious kingdom to be established and we are to believe it, regardless of unbelieving worldly wisdom. Such a one said, "The word millennium isn't in the Bible." True, and that is because that word hadn't yet been coined into the language when our version was made, but the "thousand years," which it means is repeated over and over in Revelation 20. That time of Christ's reign on the earth is written large in the prophecy of the Old Testament. In the New Testament the angel's foretelling of Christ's birth of the Virgin also announced that He should reign upon the earth. If we believe one we must believe the other. They go together.

The promises say that then the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord. And God meant what he said. You hear, "This is the millennium now." Just go up to Bonif and go into the bears' cage and see what happens. "Oh, you take the Bible too literally!" No, the Bible means its details and says what it means—the animals will then really be tame. And Jerusalem is to be a seaport by the waters that will break through there.

Jesus used a special term, "In the regeneration." The force of this is absolutely fundamental. It has two great senses. "It means the spiritual re-birth of the individual, born into Christ, becoming a new creature with new principles; no mere turning over a new leaf. Having this, it is easy to grasp the other sense, the other great regeneration, that which is to be the earth. No regeneration without Christ. The world will be in wickedness till then 'evil waxing worse and worse; and that's what we are going into, that is what the young people are entering. Are you preparing them by teaching them that the Bible is true?"

If there is anything we must stand for, it is individual regeneration. And if that, then we absolutely must believe the other, world regeneration.

ENCOURAGE OPEN AIR READING

BUENOS AIRES, July 30.—Public squares and parks of the city of Buenos Aires soon will be provided with small public libraries set up in the open air.

The municipality has given its approval to a model design consisting of a white-painted bookcase with ten foot shelves, metal curtains, an overhanging roof, and a bench for the caretaker, where readers may sit to examine books they wish to borrow.

THE CHOICE

I am master of self if I will be,
I am ruler of me if I choose.
I can idle or shirk, I can struggle and work,
And pick out the tools I will use.
I am my own servant and master,
I can order and I can obey,
I can grumble and fret or can labor and sweat,
And I am the one who shall say.

I can order me up in the morning,
I can make me get out of my bed,
And the day's busy while I can frown or can smile
I can lead me along or be led.
I can make me the being I should be,
I can make me a mouse or a man,
I've got it in me to be what I should be
And if I would do it, I can.

There's nobody else who can rule me,
As to what I shall do or shall say,
I'm the one man alive who shall say if I strive
Or if I'm a laggard today.
I can't command you or compel you,
I can't say just what you shall be,
But through all the strife of my work and my life
I can always be master of me.

So it's well through the days to remember—
That you are the master of you,
You can say if you'll work, if you'll idle or shirk,
And what kind of task you will do.
You're the boss of yourself if you will be,
You can make you a mouse or a man,
Yours to carry it through what the task is to do,
And if you would do it, you can.

TRAGEDY OF FLOOD IN 'TOWN THAT FORGOT GOD'

Floods have poured their destruction over the world ever since the great deluge of Noah's time. One such is portrayed in "The Town That Forgot God," at the Glendale theatre. The destruction and devastation created by such disasters surpass the combined cost of wars since the earth's creation. The Moloch of fire also joins the dragon of flood in the work of destruction. In different parts of the world are huge reservoirs of oil stored by nature, and from this store, modern enterprise has gathered this oil into tanks, that it might be used for industrial purposes. But the floods came and these reservoirs were turned loose to join with the floods, and thus the floods and the flames revealed, as rival demons in the work of destruction.

But what causes floods? It is the snow of the mountain tops melted by the warm spring rains in the majority of instances. From year to year the total evaporation from land and sea and the total precipitation from the heavens should be equal, but at times this does not prove to be the truth. Rainfall, like evaporation, varies. If rainfall were distributed equally there would be no disastrous floods. Regular rainfall produces regular channels, competent to carry away its burden. It is the concentration of rain in a brief period of time that causes disastrous floods.

Scientists are investigating means to check such terrible disasters as the Johnstown flood, the Galveston disaster and the Dayton deluge and their efforts have proved more or less successful.

In the William Fox production, "The Town that Forgot God," which was directed by Harry Millard, who staged "Over the Hill," much thought, research and scientific investigation was gone through in order to introduce into the play a scene, the like of which has never before been attempted. The scene referred to is a terrific storm and flood which sweeps a village off the map. In no other motion picture can you find a scene as realistic as the man-made storm and deluge pictured in the latest William Fox special production. For a real thrill nothing to compare with it has ever before been successfully attempted. In fact it will stand comparison with any of the great disasters of history for genuine realism.

Only 4,000,000 in
U. S. Above Normal,
Says Professor

[By Associated Press]
LOS ANGELES, Calif., July 30.—Ninety-six per cent of the people of the United States are below the accepted standard of intelligence, and only 4,000,000 are above the standard, Dr. R. B. Von Klein Smid, president of the University of Southern California, declared here in an address to the student body at the summer session.

The 96 per cent below standard, or approximately 96,000,000, seem likely to increase to 98,000,000, and the 4,000,000 decrease to 3,000,000, Dr. Von Klein Smid declared.

or university is to deal with the 4,000,000 and to train the people of superior intelligence that they may become leaders in the future. "Frankly, I do not know who shall come to college," Dr. Von Klein Smid said. "I am at loss to accept any kind of a criterion which shall limit college entrance to any group. Be the tests of the future what they may, the ideal of the college must be to conserve the intellectual ideals and to pass them on so that they may send out leaders for the generations to come."
